City seeks one Planning and Zoning Commission member

SEDONA, Ariz. -- The city of Sedona seeks applicants for one Vacant seat due to a resignation on the Planning and Zoning Commission.

This voluntary body, established by city council, consists of seven citizens appointed to play a critical role in the city's planning process. The commission serves as the city council's advisor on land use, growth and development issues. Commission duties include making recommendations to the city council on Community Plan updates, Land Development Code amendments, property zone changes and subdivision applications. In addition, the commission makes the final decision on conditional use permits and development review applications.

Applicants must reside in the Sedona city limits and should have interest, experience or knowledge in land use or related fields including, but not limited to architecture, construction, landscaping and planning.

The term of service for this seat will begin once appointed and expires on October 31, 2027.

Applications may be picked up at the City Clerk's office, at 102 Roadrunner Drive, or by accessing this fillable PDF version.

Return completed applications to the City Clerk's Office or via email at cityclerksdept@sedonaaz.gov no later than 5 p.m. on Monday, March 30, 2026.

Learn more about the Planning and Zoning Commission's responsibilities by contacting Cari Meyer, planning manager at (928) 203-5049 or cmeyer@sedonaaz.gov.
